

Duggan Details

March 2019

From the Editor

Brrrr! Is everyone staying warm? As these frigid temperatures continue, we do have some hope of spring with an update from the Duggan Community Garden.

Also check out the article on how to recycle properly, and please provide your feedback to Edmonton Waste services on how our waste system will be changing (hint: we're getting green carts for organics separation!) I'll hopefully be able to write more on that in the coming months.

If you are familiar with our Facebook page and group, you will see that crime is a hot topic these days. To help keep our neighborhood safe and secure, we now have a Facebook group called Duggan Neighbourhood Crime Watch (Thanks Brent!) Check it out, and feel free to post suspicious activity or crimes occurring in the area. Of course, call 911 if you see any active crimes, and report any other activity to the non-emergency line (780-423-4567).

From now on, we will be publishing the Duggan Details every two months. The May issue of the Duggan Details will be published the first week of May. Please send any notices, articles or advertisements to the email address below by April 15.

Recycle Right

By Tara Penner

Your partner, child, or friend holds up a container and asks "Is this recyclable?"

Some things are easy. Soup cans? Absolutely. Water bottles? Sure. Paper? Yep—unless it has tape, plastic or staples. And then what about Styrofoam? Plastic bags? Clothing? Aluminum foil? And wait, do I keep the lids on or keep them separate? Does the container have to be clean? SO MANY QUESTIONS!

I guess I'll just toss it in in the trash.

But wait! Recycling in Edmonton is simple, once you know the rules.

How do I recycle?

- If you are in a house, simply put a blue bag containing recyclables out with your garbage on collection day.
- If you are in an apartment, you should have a large shared blue bin. If not, talk to your apartment management.
- You can also take recycling to one of the Community Recycling Depots located around the city. The one nearest to Duggan is located at Southgate Center.

What happens then?

Recycled material is collected and taken to a sorting facility. Workers and machines sort the items into various streams (paper, plastic, glass, etc).

Bottles and cans that can be returned for a deposit are collected (and the deposits are used to keep your Utility fees low!)

Materials are then packed into bales and sold to local and global markets for recycling.

What can I recycle?

Paper Newsprint, flyers, envelopes, paper bags, computer paper, magazines, books, non-foil gift wrap

Cardboard Paper egg cartons, boxes, milk cartons, juice boxes, pizza boxes (just remove the greasy liner)

Glass Jars and bottles only

Metal Food cans, beverage cans, soup cans, pop cans, aluminum pie plates, empty non-hazardous aerosol cans

Plastic Household bottles and containers, produce "clamshells", stretchy plastic bags

For all containers, remove the caps and lids (throw them in the trash), but you can leave the labels on.

Community News

What is not recyclable?

- Long, stringy things (like Christmas lights, cords, or VHS tapes—they can get tangled in machinery)
- Shredded paper (it makes a mess at the sorting facility!)
- Clothing or textiles
- Styrofoam
- Containers larger than a basketball or smaller than your palm (these will fall through the sorting machinery)
- Scrap metal, electronics, batteries and light bulbs (take these to the Eco Station!)

Pro Tips

- Rinse your items. They don't have to be spotless, but clean enough that it won't pose a health risk to a worker at the sorting facility after a few days.
- Keep them loose! Don't pack a can inside a jar inside a box. Workers and machinery sort the items, so make it easy for them to do it quickly.
- Other cities might be able to recycle different things. It all depends on what markets they have found for the various materials.

Visit edmonton.ca/recycling for more information on everything you've read here. Also download the WasteWise app on your mobile device. Then you can impress all of your friends with your recycling knowledge! ■

The Duggan Community Garden Grows Food and Friendships

By: Apryl Bergstrom, Interim Chair, Duggan Community Garden

In 2014, I joined a group of volunteers to turn a patch of grass at Duggan into a thriving community garden with 15 individual garden plots, a community herb bed, and a small orchard. Each year, I love watching new life begin again at the garden, starting with the first small, fragile sprouts that push their way out of the soil in the spring.

In the beginning, I joined the community garden because I believe that gardens are part of the solution for a healthier and more sustainable future. When we transform lawns into gardens, we do not need to purchase as much produce from grocery stores. I am constantly amazed at how much healthy, organic food is produced in each of these small plots without the use of pesticides, herbicides or artificial fertilizers. Not only does this save people money, but this food is also healthier. Having ready access to cheap, fresh and tasty produce from the garden is a great incentive to eat more vegetables and rely less on processed food. My family eats a lot of fresh vegetables in the summer, thanks to the garden! Gardening also gets people out in the fresh air and keeps them active. After sitting in front of a computer all day, spending time in a lush garden allows me to slow down, enjoy the sights and sounds, and breathe in fresh air. I leave the garden feeling relaxed and refreshed.

Gardens are also healthy for the planet. Most food travels hundreds or thousands of kilometers to reach our grocery stores, using fossil fuels and emitting greenhouse gases. Locally grown food can help to mitigate climate change. A garden can also provide a welcome oasis for local wildlife in the midst of an urban desert filled with buildings, asphalt, concrete and manicured lawns. Gardens also provide food and habitat for native butterflies and bees, especially if you plant native flowers next to your beets and carrots!

While I initially joined the community garden because of its environmental benefits, I have found the greatest benefits from new friendships and an increased sense of community. When I first joined the garden, I did not know many people in Duggan. By working in the garden and attending garden events—such as work bees, monthly planning meetings and bi-annual community potlucks—I began to meet people in the neighbourhood. As a result, I now feel more connected with my own community, and some of these new connections have even grown into lasting friendships. Not only can a community garden convert a patch of grass into a small urban oasis, but it can also transform strangers into colleagues and friends!

Please join us in growing food and friendships in the Duggan Community Garden! There are several ways to get involved:

- Attend our Annual General Meeting at the Duggan Community Hall on Saturday, April 13th at 11:00 a.m. You will meet gardeners, learn about the garden, and find out how to get involved.
- Join our short waiting list to become a gardener.
- Attend our monthly planning meetings, which take place on the first Thursday of every month from 7:00-8:00 p.m. in the back room of the Duggan Community Hall

- Volunteer at a monthly garden work bee.
- Attend a community garden potluck, which are open to everyone. This year, they are scheduled on June 22nd (11:00 a.m.) and September 28th (11:00 a.m.) at the Duggan Community Hall.

For additional details on any of these opportunities, or to find out more about the garden in general, please email DugganGarden@mydcl.ca or visit our Facebook page at www.facebook.com/groups/DugganGarden/. You can also call Apryl at 780-433-8113.

"I envision a day when every city and town has front and back yards, community gardens and growing spaces, nurtured into life by neighbors who are no longer strangers, but friends who delight in the edible rewards offered from a garden they discovered together."

Residential Winter Road Maintenance Public Engagement

Edmonton winters are changing. Multiple day snowstorms combined with freezing rain and more frequent freeze/thaw cycles over the winter is the new Edmonton reality. The previous practices - which focused mainly on "as needed" residential snow clearing - need to expand into a broader winter residential road maintenance program that includes how the City's residential roads, sidewalks and shared use pathways are kept safe.

The City's roadways operations team is already dealing with these new challenges, but the Policy needs to evolve as well to deal with our new winter weather. Potential updates would take effect in preparation for the 2019/2020 winter season.

The City is reviewing the way snow and ice are managed on our neighbourhood roads, sidewalks and shared use pathways. Edmontonians are invited to share their views at a series of drop-in engagement sessions or via an online survey on the City's Snow and Ice Control Policy C409J.

Join us at:

Let's Keep Talking: The Future of Waste

Last fall Edmontonians shared their thoughts on how household waste is sorted and managed. We gathered your comments and are using them to shape recommendations for the future of waste.

We need your help as we further explore the details of what potential changes might look like for Edmonton's waste programs and services. Connect with us again, or for the first time, at a drop-in session, or by completing an online survey. Share your perspectives on specific topics such as cart sizes, recycling and waste reduction.

Public Drop-in Sessions : February 10 - April 15, 2019

Online Survey : February 10 - April 15, 2019

Input gathered will help shape final program recommendations presented to City Council later this year. The recommendations will support the City's focus on increasing the diversion of waste from landfills.
